

Multi-rate laser pulses could boost outdoor optical wireless performance

"October 29, 2004, University Park, PA--Multi-rate, ultra-short laser pulses -- with waveforms shaped like dolphin chirps -- offer a new approach to help free-space optical wireless signals penetrate clouds, fog and other adverse weather conditions, said Penn State engineers...."

Laser Focus World Web Exclusive, October 29, 2004